Your Goddess: Zola Fel

Most rivers are each inhabited by powerful spirit which rules the waterway from headwaters to mouth. River dwellers worship him or her. Those spirits which inhabit tributary rivers, streams, and creeks are usually the children of the main river deities.

Newtings

Distantly related to Dragonewts, Newtlings are born in secluded spawning pools in the Zola Fel river. Immature adults of both sexes are kicked out of the pool and told to go roam and experience the world as 'Bachoelors'. Upon achieving adulthood they return to their home pool.
